Heady presented by his publisher. MR. MORRISON BEADY, was born in Spencer county, Kentucky, and is now nearly forty years of age. When about sixteen years old he suffered an injury to one of his eyes, which resulted in total loss of sight in both, and this calamity was soon aggravated by loss of hearing. By the aid of a trampet he can yet distinguish some familiar voices; but even this slight communication with the external world is rapidly failing him. Though prevented by this double deprivation from repairing by study the defects of a very imperfeet school education, he has been able to acquire large and varied information by intercourse with intelligent persons, while such intercourse was still possible, and by the exercise of vigorous powers of reflection. No one knowing the facts, and reading the vivid and picturesque bits of description in his writings, can fail perceptive faculties before clouded grain put in with a drill gives a to be struck with the keenness of his by what he prthetically ealls "the much better return than when sown double night" of darkness and si-on this poi t, says:
